I. Advocacy: 2007 Texas Legislative Session and More

It was supposed to be a friendlier Texas Legislature. For the first time in years, the State had a budget surplus and it seemed time to address priority funding issues for Texans with disabilities. CTD worked tirelessly through the days and nights of the 140 days of the 80th session to help assure that Texans with disabilities had a seat at the political poker table. With the help of individuals calling and writing their Senators and Representatives, along with the help of our partner advocacy groups, positive outcomes were achieved. Attached is the 2007 Legislative Report of the Coalition of Texans with Disabilities. We've split our report into three categories: State Budget Issues, Voting Legislation, and Diverse Disability Legislation.

CTD was actively involved in all the issues listed. Our role and the organizations with which we partnered are identified. CTD is deeply appreciative of ADAPT, Advocacy Inc. and the Texas Center for Disability Studies; our partners in broad-based disability advocacy. We thank AARP for their strong effort on the waiting list, utility and voter ID issues. CTD efforts included:

- Testimony at public hearings
- Direct contacts to legislative offices
- Supplying and reviewing language for legislation
- Written position papers distributed to the Legislature
- Implementation of Raise Your Voice! (click the link on www.cotwd.org), a web-based tool to communicate to legislators. CTD members sent legislators over 2,200 emails.
- Collaborative organization of two legislative rallies at the Capitol
- We held our annual convention just blocks from the Capitol in April, bringing in folks from around the state
- CTD sponsored the Capitol visit of the national Road to Freedom ADA bus tour, combining the event with a press conference on the Capitol steps.
- CTD organized the Legless Lizard Tour de Tejas, a 25-day public awareness event to draw attention to pressing legislative issues. CTD member and polio survivor Mikail Davenport handcycled 950 miles from El Paso to Beaumont, attracting a national documentary film crew as well as national, state and local media along the route.

Budget: The Legislature chose to leave Austin with $6.5 billion unspent despite the unmet needs of the disability community. Though we did not get everything we wanted, at the end of the day the results are that thousands of additional people with disabilities will get services and benefits in the community. In this difficult state, the outstanding legislator is Senator Judith Zaffirini (photo with CTD's Dennis Borel), whose hard work, legislative acumen and commitment to Texans with disabilities secured most of these funds.

Voting Legislation: We won this tough fight... numerous bills were filed to water down or eliminate the accessible voting rights gained under the Help America Vote Act (HAVA). As CTD has done HAVA outreach and education, we heard many times of the value given to a private ballot, accessible polling places and modern accessible voting technology. CTD developed close working relationships with the election committees in both chambers, expressing the strong will of Texans with disabilities to never return to the days of disenfranchisement. And "voter ID" became a high profile challenge; if passed it would have harmed the voting participation of people with disabilities, elders and minorities.

Diverse Disability Legislation: On top of the budget and voting legislation, CTD was actively involved in over 21 diverse bills with an impact on the community of people with disabilities. Two bills were filed at CTD request: HB2216 passed and will ensure that structurally modified vehicles will continue to be available in Texas. The ADA bill (above photo: Sen. Hinojosa speaks to the media, Rep. Strama in back row right) did not pass, though we were heartened to advance it further in the process, passing it through the House Civil Practices committee and raising more awareness to the State's offensive practice of claiming immunity for its acts of disability discrimination. CTD was among the primary advocates for successful bills on consumer directed services, workers comp extended coverage, judicial review of Medicaid decisions, property tax cuts for homeowners with disabilities, accessible parking and protection from abuse, among the diverse issues. We were surprised at the public interest in HB308, which became known as the "blind hunters bill". The bill legalized the use of laser sighting devices for hunters with blindness. CTD got behind HB308 because it was about a reasonable accommodation and a good, though offbeat, example of inclusion into all activities.

Thanks to all the CTD members, volunteers, friends, legislators and Capitol staffers who helped us in our mission.

Major Advocacy Project: State Services Privatization:

Privatization has been a big change for Texans with disabilities. Reduction of agency field workers with a privatized integrated eligibility system relying on call centers and web sites did not work on a number of levels and was scrapped by the State. CTD has long advocated that the call centers may not prove accessible to all people with disabilities. This is not the end of privatized eligibility. We'll closely monitor the State's next steps.

Medicaid managed care is expanding from its one location in Houston to eight more urban areas. Known as ICM (Integrated Care Management) in the Dallas-Fort Worth area and as STAR Plus in the other areas, CTD believes that managed care merits close attention.

Activities:

- CTD sits on the advisory councils of 3 of the HMOs—Superior, Amerigroup, Evercare—for direct dialogue.
- CTD has trained new staff for Evercare and Superior on effective interactions with people with disabilities.
- CTD set up over 40 consumer outreach and education events.
- CTD participates in the State's managed care stakeholders meetings.

Major Advocacy Project: Protecting the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA)

Texas Attorney General Greg Abbott continues to fight for the State's immunity from the civil rights protections of the ADA. His position: Texas has sovereign immunity from the ADA and may discriminate based on a person's disability without recourse. CTD is at the forefront of this battle.

At this time, we believe that Texas state legislation is still needed to definitively resolve this critical issue. In the meantime, the ADA information on the CTD home page at www.cotwd.org gets more comments than anything else on the site.

II. Strengthening the Foundation of CTD Public Policy Work

CTD worked on strategies to strengthen the framework of disability advocacy. The strategies were not issue-specific, but rather designed to improve resources for any ongoing policy issues.

Political Leaders to CTD: CTD's 2007 convention drew Rep. Patrick Rose, Chair of House Human Services Committee; Rep. John Davis, Chair of the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Human Services, and Texas Secretary of State Roger Williams, all of whom have been key players in making disability issues front and center.

Raise Your Voice! Web Communications: CTD's on-line communications system to policy makers was introduced and proved successful in linking members with their decision makers in Austin. Raise Your Voice! logged over 2,200 emails to legislators from February through May.

Brain Injury Association of Texas: BIATX continues to be co-located at CTD. In 2007, CTD and BIATX combined their annual conventions. Many BIATX members were very positive about the advocacy orientation provided at the convention.

Texas Chapter of the Paralyzed Veterans of America: PVA and CTD partnered significantly on advocacy and the Austin chapter of the PVA is now co-located at CTD.

The CTD Messenger e-newsletter: Now distributed most months, the electronic newsletter continues to expand its reach. There is no cost to subscribe. Anyone interested can email wgreer@cotwd.org to be added to our mail list.

dozens of small communities, which welcomed him and his messages of educating Texans on public policy issues. This journey, widely covered by media all across the country, culminated on day 25, resulting in a large celebration in Beaumont, TX.
